

College of Sharia'

At the University of Jerash

Specialties:

1- Bachelor of Jurisprudence and its Foundations

2- Master of Comparative Jurisprudence

Objectives

The Faculty seeks to achieve the following objectives:

1. Graduating advocates to God in order to spread Islamic knowledge with correct understanding away from fanaticism and extremism.

2. Contributing to spreading religious awareness among members of society, and the spirit of commitment to the provisions of Sharia.

3. Graduating students who are able to review and apply Sharia rulings in a manner consistent with the general objectives of Islamic legislation.

4. Graduating students capable of dealing with contemporary issues, reality challenges, and future aspirations.

5. Providing the community with those with expertise and competencies in the areas of fatwa, teaching, legal judiciary, preaching and counseling.

6. Active participation in scientific research, especially in areas and issues that are characterized by modernity and development, in order to form a correct juristic opinion about them that does not contradict the general purposes of legislation and achieves both the interest of society and the individual.

7. Explaining the bright image of Islam and forming an objective scientific mentality, characterized by moderation.

Contact Us

DEAN OF THE COLLEGE: DR. ABDULLAH
MUNAWER WARDAT

PHONE NUMBER: 0775610800

EMAIL: AWARDATT@YAHOO.COM

Vision, Mission, Values and Objectives

Vision

Sharia excellence according to comprehensive quality standards in all teaching programs, and providing society with competencies capable of disseminating sound legal concepts.

Mission

The Faculty of Sharia seeks to prepare distinguished scientific and behavioral cadres capable of leadership in society, consolidating the values of the Islamic faith, tolerance of Islam, and combating extremism according to quality standards and scientific research.

Vauws

1. Knowledge advancement based on creativity and innovation.
2. Encouraging scientific research.
3. Focusing on moderation and tolerance of Islam.
4. Quality in education.

MA in Comparative Jurisprudence

This department was established at the beginning of the academic year 2009-2010 and the number of study hours for obtaining a master's degree is 33 hours, within two tracks:

The first: the thesis track: where the student studies (24) credit hours of the plan, and prepares a thesis (9) hours.

Second: The Comprehensive Path: where the student studies (33) credit hours, then after successfully completing the courses, he takes a comprehensive examination to measure his competence.

Fees

First: Bachelor's degree

The fees for a bachelor's degree in jurisprudence and its principles are (20) Jordanian dinars per hour.

The student pays a semester fee that includes the services provided at the university in the amount of:

The first and second semester (260) dinars
Summer semester (200) dinars

Second: Masters:

The fees for a master's hour in comparative jurisprudence are 75 Jordanian dinars per hour.

The Bachelor's plan in the Faculty of Sharia, which has been approved by the Accreditation Commission, is distinguished as a varied plan rich in multiple legal subjects, according to the following educational competencies:

1.The Glorious Qur'an and its sciences: students learn the rules and art of recitation, memorizing parts of the Glorious Qur'an. The student is committed to memorizing by taking into account the provisions of recitation. He/she also studies the subjects of the sciences of the Qur'an, interpretation, the miracles of the Qur'an, the Qur'anic stories, and interpretation of the verses of rulings.

2.The Noble Hadith and its sciences: the student studies the biography of the Prophet, the sciences of hadith, memorizes some of the noble hadiths with their interpretation and explanation, learns about their rulings, and the guidance of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, in literature and manuscripts.

3.Islamic belief: the student studies the true Islamic belief, gets to know the various Islamic groups, and is taught subjects related to dialogue and fighting fanaticism and extremism.

4.Fiqh: the student studies many subjects, starting with the introduction to fiqh, then the rulings of acts of worship. He/she studies emerging issues in worship, a course in transactions, theory of the contract, and learns the provisions of contemporary financial transactions.

5.Personal status, penalties and judiciary: the student studies the rulings of marriage and divorce and the provisions related to them in terms of dowry, alimony, waiting period, and breastfeeding, as well as the issues of inheritance and wills. In the field of penalties, the student learns the rulings of punishment and retribution. The student in this field studies the Fiqh of the judiciary and the principles of trials.

Arabic language: the student studies the basics of 6.the Arabic language, writing and expression, and grammatical applications in the Glorious Qur'an and the Sunnah of the Prophet.

About the college

The College of Sharia was established in 1998

The Faculty of Sharia (Islamic Law) at Jerash University is one of the distinct faculties among its counterparts in Jordanian universities. It has been able to supply the labor market with qualified Islamic Sharia degree holders who have joined various places in education, awqaf and fatwa jobs in addition to the Department of Supreme Judge. Many of the faculty students were able to do higher studies to complete their academic career that started at Jerash University. The Faculty of Sharia at Jerash University is proud to have achieved first place in the Proficiency Exam more than once among Sharia faculties in Jordan. The Faculty of Sharia at Jerash University seeks to teach students the basic legal sciences, in addition to linking students to scientific developments in various topics and to graduate researchers who are systematically and academically qualified in the field of Sharia. It also seeks to build a distinctive Islamic personality based on a sound understanding of the purposes of Islamic legislation from the Qur'an and Sunnah that is capable of combining what is authentic with that which is contemporary.

Bachelor of Jurisprudence and its Foundations

This department was established at the beginning of the academic year 2006-2007 AD, and the number of study hours for obtaining a bachelor's degree is (132) hours, and the subjects vary according to a plan approved by the Ministry of Higher Education and the Accreditation Authority,