

Course Name: Organizational Behavior in Educational Institutions.

Course No. : (701760).

Credit Hours: (3) Hours.

Course Description:

This course aims to study the concept of organization; the concept of organizational culture and its elements; the relationship between organizational culture and societal culture; the concept of organizational climate and the prevailing values in society; the school as a social institution and its culture as a reflection of the culture of society; Organizational behavior and educational philosophy, and the role of educational leadership in developing the desired organizational behavior of employees. It also deals with the motives of human behavior, conflict management within the organization, the foundations of work control, workers and work organization, leadership and its impact on morale and the collective behavior of employees, and applications of the analytical approach to the structure of organizational behavior.